SUPERINTENDENT NOT APPOINTED

National Cemetery Superintendent Must Have Served in the Army and Must Have Six Months' Trial. Local Man Not Likely.

Much interest centers here in the selection of a superintendent at the National Cemetery to succeed the late Calvin Hamilton. It is interesting to note several of the conditions which make a man eligible for the position. "They must have served in the Army of the United States, either regular or volunteer, and must have been disabled for active field service in the line of duty, but the degree of their present disability must not be such as to impair their efficiency in charge of cemeteries."

"All applicants, before being appointed, will be examined by a board of officers to be convened, by orders from The Adjutant General's office, in the department where they may be residing or serving. An applicant having passed a satisfactory examination will, if selected by appointment, be required to serve a probationary term of six months as an assistant at such cemetery as the Chief, Quartermaster Corps, may designate before being definitely appointed."

There is said to be a waiting list of men who have served this six months' term and longer at other cemeteries and are accordingly in line for promotion either to Gettysburg or to the superintendency of the cemetery at which they are now employed if their present superintendency should be brought to Gettysburg.

It is accordingly believed that a superintendent or an assistant from another national cemetery, will be brought here to succeed Mr. Hamilton. In the meantime Harry Koch, Mr. Hamilton's assistant, will continue in charge.

The pay of the superintendent at the Gettysburg cemetery is $75 a month and fuel.

Kuhn, Kenneth Wright, Charles McKendrick, William Trimmer, Ralph Starnes, Samuel Noel.

MRS. TILLIE P. ALLEMAN

Wrote Story of her Experience during the Battle.

Mrs. Tillie Pierce Alleman died in a Philadelphia Hospital on Sunday.

Mrs. Alleman was born in Gettysburg, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce. She was a little girl about ten years of age at the time of the battle and some years later wrote a book entitled "A Little Girl's Recollections of the Battle of Gettysburg." It had a rather wide sale. Mrs. Alleman was here at the time of the battle anniversary last summer and renewed the acquaintance of many of her old friends.

She was a member of the Methodist church of this place until her marriage and was prominent in the work of the Woman's Relief Corps in Snyder County.

Mrs. Alleman is well known by many persons here. She had been living at Selinsgrove for a number of years and the funeral was held there on Wednesday. She was a cousin of Judge Swope.

BASE BALL FANS HOLD A MEETING

Decide to Have Sunday School League again and will also Put Town Team in Pen Mar League. Officers are Elected.

The reorganization of the Sunday School base ball league and the appointment of two men to represent Gettysburg at the coming gathering of the Pen Mar League promoters resulted from a meeting of local fans on Wednesday evening.

Just what effect the four team circuit will have on the Sunday School league came in for much discussion. All present felt that Gettysburg wanted and should have a continuance of Sunday School base ball which for three years has proved a delightful diversion on Summer evenings. It was believed that this would help rather than hinder the placing of a team in the Pen Mar League and it was accordingly determined to prepare for the regular series of games this summer.

Officers were elected as follows: president, John McDonnell; vice president, Harry E. Bumbaugh; secretary, Rufus H. Bushman; treasurer, John W. Brehm.

It is planned to have a schedule which will provide that each team shall play two games with every other team. The season will begin earlier than in other years as the completion of the Kurtz Playground diamond will make it unnecessary to wait for the closing of college.

College Church and Methodist managers pointed out their difficulty in securing teams strong enough to make it interesting for the others in the pennant race and it was decided to combine these two teams to play under one name which will be agreed upon later. This will place just five teams in the league, will allow the playing of postponed games one night each week and will make better base ball, it is believed.

As a committee to recommend official umpires, a schedule and an official scorer, the president appointed H. E. Bumbaugh, Lawrence Oyler and William Allison. Rufus Bushman was appointed property man and it was decided that last year's rules concerning the eligibility of players should remain in force.

The Sunday School league has a balance of $89.85 in the treasury. Last year's season opened with a balance of $81.48 on hand, interest from certificates amounted to $4.19 and the games of 1913 cleared $4.18. That this latter amount was not more was due to heavy expenses which included the purchase of two $1.25 balls for each game, a mask, catcher's mitt, half dozen bats, breast protector, the moving of the field, and placing of wire. The total expenses for the season were $93.38 while the collections amounted to $97.56.

John McDonnell and Irvin L. Taylor were chosen to represent Gettysburg at the meeting of representatives from Fairfield, New Oxford and Emmitsburg to be held in the near future to formulate plans for the proposed Pen Mar League.

DANIEL LEREW

Was Friend of the Late Charles Prosser. Died Monday.

Daniel Lerew died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. J. Myers, in York Springs, early Monday morning aged about 84 years. He was an intimate friend of Charles Prosser and followed him in death in less than 48 hours.

Mr. Lerew was born at the Speck farm along the State road just beyond the York-Adams county line and moved into Latimore township 42 years ago where he followed the occupation of farming for many years. For the past twenty years he has resided in York Springs and Huntingdon township.

The funeral services were held from his late home Wednesday morning at 9:30 with interment at the Sunnyside cemetery, Rev. Paul Gladfelter conducting the services.

MAY AVOID THE QUARANTINE

Dog Owners Given Warning which, if Followed, will Avoid Necessity of Placing Hundred Day Dog Quarantine here.

By exercising a little care and showing a willingness to comply with the law Gettysburg's dog owners may save their animals the inconvenience of undergoing a hundred day quarantine.

Officers of the State Livestock Sanitary Board have placed the matter of establishing such a quarantine in the hands of Dr. E. D. Hudson who had the examination made of the dog which was killed on the streets of town Saturday night. It is not his desire to work any hardship on local people but he realizes that protection must be given and after a conference with Burgess Raymond this morning it was decided to give several days' notice before deciding definitely on a quarantine.

All dogs not wearing license tags will be shot on sight by an officer, whether or not the quarantine is imposed. It is believed that this will rid the town of a large number of worthless curs which are running at large and would be great menace should there be any further spread of rabies. Persons owning dogs that are licensed would do well to observe reasonable care in letting them run at large.

If due precautions are taken the hundred day quarantine will not be imposed but a general disregard of this warning will result in the same condition that prevailed last year and which, for more than three months, caused dog owners the greatest sort of trouble.

Dog license tags for the year 1914 have not yet been issued but the 1913 tags will be sufficient protection. This year's tags will not be available until the tax duplicates are issued on March 28. Persons who did not pay their tax last year may secure the tags from the collectors.

CLAIM HAZING IS NECESSARY

Gettysburg College Students Claim they Cannot Control Freshmen unless they Can Punish Unruly Members. An Editorial.

The abolition of hazing at Gettysburg College by the student body has resulted in the failure to tame unruly Freshmen, according to an editorial in this week's "Gettysburgian", the students' publication, which urges organized hazing as a desirable institution. The paper says:

"The short period of several months has elapsed and day after day the absence of hazing is being more acutely felt. The condition has been reached when something must be done and the question that confronts us is what shall be the best plan to follow."

"The name of upperclassman carries with it no prestige for as far as class privileges are concerned there are none recognized at the present time. The upperclassmen lay down rules but these are mere empty phrases without some means of having them enforced. The time-worn traditions which have come to us treasured since the founding of the college, and held in almost sacred esteem by all her loyal sons are now being laid aside for no other reason than that there is no way of making felt the necessity of conforming with the customs of our college life."

"At the time of the abolishing of hazing we had the best system of organized hazing of any school in the country. The Sophomore Band had full power and was responsible for all hazing which was effected, and there is no better agent in whom such power could be vested than that organization as it then existed. The names of the men were withheld until the expiration of their active term but a sealed envelope containing the list of the names of the active Band was placed in the hands of the Student Council and in case of complaint the identity of the Band could readily be discovered."

"No man could be hazed unless there was a good proof that he had broken a rule and then he was dealt with according to the seriousness of the offense. If the man considered himself ill-treated by the Band he was given the privilege of appeal to the Council and in that way the matter could be adjusted to the best interests of all concerned. A report containing the names of every man to whom discipline had been given and the offense committed, was submitted to the Council and this report was entered in their records."

"Hazing cannot altogether be abolished, for whether the penalty is great or small there are some who will practice hazing. The faculty is helpless in dealing with such cases; the Student Council is helpless, so such hazing will continue if another form is not established."

"Not shall there be hazing but in what form shall it be is the question which confronts us. The organized form is more effective and much more desirable so why not choose the better of two evils?"

YORK SPRINGS

York Springs—The fox given its freedom at the lower end of town on Saturday afternoon only ran a couple hundred yards and was captured alive by John Paxton, of Latimore township. A large crowd of people were assembled at 3 o'clock when Elmer Yeagy opened the box and gave the gray animal its freedom. As there were only a couple of young hounds to follow the animals were placed on the trail in a couple of minutes and caught up to the fox before it had gone a hundred yards. The fox turned on the canines so savagely that they beat a hasty retreat and furnished much amusement for the crowd who took the fiasco good naturedly. Mr. Paxton captured the fox alive in Hantz's woods.

FIGHTING WAS OF MINOR NATURE

There Was no General Battle
South of Chihuahua.

WAIT A WEEK, SAYS REBELS

They Admit Federals Halted Their Advance South of Torreon—Villa at the Front.

El Paso, Tex., March 19.—Whatever fighting occurred south of Chihuahua on Tuesday was of a minor nature, for Pancho Villa left the battlefield and came back to the city of Chihuahua Tuesday night.

He was in Chihuahua yesterday, but last night his lieutenants in Juarez say he returned to the front. They frankly say there has been no fighting of consequence and that when the real fighting begins Villa will be in it.

Tuesday's most serious fighting was at Yermo, near Barmajillo, 100 miles south of Torreon, and the Federals, if they did not repulse the rebels, at least halted them. This is as good as admitted by the rebels. That Tomas Urbina's force at Rosario was also defeated, is credited, but this was a minor fight, as his force was small.

Rebels in Juarez declare that Villa is not yet ready to begin the fight, and that the Federals are not going to press it by trying to advance any further north. The first and only fighting was that of Wednesday at Yermo and Rosario.

"Wait a week," said a rebel official,
"then you will hear battle news."

The rebel aeroplane is still in Juarez, and United States Consul Agent G. B. Carothers has left for the front to accompany Villa.

Rojas and Lind Meet, Is Rumor.

Washington, March 19.—Though the purpose of the trip to Vera Cruz of Senor Rojas, minister for foreign affairs in the Huerta cabinet, is unknown to the state department, this development is admittedly full of interesting possibilities.

John Lind, in his capacity of special representative of President Wilson, has had a free hand in meeting whom he chooses in pursuit of his general instructions to keep in close touch with the Mexican situation, and no doubt will avail himself, it is said, of the opportunity to confer with the minister, who has been suggested as a provisional presidential possibility in the event of the elimination of Huerta.

In this connection the state department has been informed that at the time of the killing of Madero, Rojas was governor of Jalisco and was not in the capital.

WESTINGHOUSE WILL FILED

Bulk of $35,000,000 Estate Goes to His Wife and Son.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 19.—Forty per cent of the estate, together with two-thirds of certain stocks, to his widow, 40 per cent to his son, George Westinghouse, Jr., and 20 per cent to his brother, were the principal bequests of George Westinghouse, the noted inventor, who died in New York last week.

The will, a brief but complicated document of five paragraphs, was prepared in Pittsburgh. The instrument gave no estimate of the value of the estate, which, however, is believed to be about $35,000,000.

The will also provides that until the final disposition of the estate by the executors, the son is to have an income of $500 a month and the widow is to receive the balance of the income from the estate during her life in monthly payments of not less than $10,000, and in event of the income being insufficient to pay this sum the amount is to be made up from the principal.

TRIAL HALTED WHEN GIRL DISAPPEARS

Defendant Arrested Following Alleged Abduction.

Salisbury, Md., March 19.—There was considerable surprise in this city when Judge Stanford, who is now holding court here, issued a warrant against Avery T. Malone and Nutt T. Hammond, charging them with ab-ducting and secreting Miss Hazel B.
Topfer, a young girl, eighteen years of age, to keep her from testifying in a $5000 damage suit brought by her mother, Mrs. Annie B. Topfer, against Malone, and which was removed to Dorchester county.

Malone was arrested and held under $5000 bail. Bail was furnished by his father, Mrs. Topfer had brought suit against Malone on the charge of betraying of her daughter, and the trial was set for Wednesday.

Tuesday night, it is charged, Malone and Hammond induced Miss Top-fer to go away from home and carried her to New Church, Va., where the counsel for Mrs. Topfer located them.

Deputy Sheriff J. Frank Walter was given attachment and brought Malone and Miss Topfer back. Hammond has not yet been arrested.

CUT GIRL'S HAIR IN STREET CAR

Didn't Discover Loss of Her Tresses
Until She Reached School.

Philadelphia, March 19.—Miss Ethel
Smith, sixteen years old, of 1332 West Toga street, was sent home from the William Penn High school in tears when it was discovered that some one had cut over a foot of her hair off while she was riding to the school on a Fifteenth street car.

At the school it was said the young woman did not know her hair had been cut until one of the girls asked her why she had her hair cut. Miss Smith was dumfounded and burst into tears when she felt back of her head and discovered the injury she had received.

The young woman said she had left home at the usual time and that she had sat in the rear of the street car while on her way to school. It is believed that while she was absorbed in a book she was reading some one cut off the hair.

Fourth Set of Twins; "Whata da Use"

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 19.—When his wife gave birth to her fourth set of twins in as many years, Louis Quino, a barber, of Tarrantum, was neither puffed nor exultant. Accustomed to such events, he merely shrugged his shoulders. When Quino was jokingly asked what he thought of race suicide, he dryly answered:
"Whata da use?"

New Nose Made From Rib.

Baltimore, Md., March 19.—With a new nose made from one of his ribs strapped to his face, which was denuded of features in a sawmill accident three years ago, Ross Allen, a young Canadian, is recovering at a hospital here. A series of skin grafts have given him new lips, and now a new nose covered with skin taken from his forehead.

TRUST CONTROLS ARGENTINE BEEF

How U. S. Packers Are Keeping Up Prices.

OUR IMPORTS ARE HEAVY

About 9,000,000 Pounds Coming Into the Country Monthly, But Prices Are Not Lowered.

Washington, March 19.—How Argentine's beef industry, which sends millions of pounds of beef into the United States monthly under the new tariff law, is dominated by Chicago slaughtering and packing companies, which "do by far the major portion of the entire business," is described in a "farmers' bulletin" issued by the department of agriculture.

That Argentine beef has caused a reduction in the prices of meat in the United States has been generally supposed, but the department's bulletin remarks that "it is not assumed that the American controlled companies in Argentina are using Argentine beef to beat down the prices of Chicago beef."

At the present time, the bulletin says, there are nine establishments for slaughtering, chilling, or freezing, and exporting beef located in or near Buenos Ayres, and five of these companies are owned or operated by Chicago houses.

In the summarized conclusions of the bulletin it is shown that imported Argentine dressed beef adds to the national supply of the United States at the present rate a little over 15 per cent.

"While some of this meat," the bulletin adds, "has come from British gr frigorificos at Buenos Ayres, a great deal of it has been consigned by the Buenos Ayres frigorificos of the Chicago slaughtering and packing companies, to themselves at New York for sale by themselves in New York or wherever they please to send it by rail."

According to the bulletin, 9,000,000 pounds of Argentine beef are being imported into the United States every month. It is shown that in October the United States received 2,069,794 pounds; in November, 3,988,898; in December, 9,440,488 pounds, and in January, 8,935,797 pounds.

ESCAPES ELECTRIC CHAIR

Pennsylvania Pardon Board Grants
Commutation to Mike Madar.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 19.—Mike Madar, of Somerset county, the first person to apply for commutation of the death sentence by electrocution, was recommended for commutation to life imprisonment by the state board of pardons.

District Attorney Saylor, of Somerset, said during the hearing that the sentiment of the county was that the man should not suffer the death penalty, as he had stabbed another during a street fight.

The board recommended pardons for Fred McDonnell, convicted of murder in Crawford county in 1895, but granted commutation to Ludwig Swewyzer, second degree murder, Al-legheeny, now serving a thirty-year sentence imposed in 1907. He was refused in 1913.

Recommendations were: Russell
Banner, Philadelphia, assault; Earl Echeoz, Crawford; Giuseppe Palom-ina, Philadelphia, second degree murder, and Philip Reilly, alias Roach, Luzerne county, entry, now out on parole.

Refusals were: Angelo Gillo, Chester, assault and battery; S. H. Anderson, Schuylkill, and Bruno Pizzimenti, Dauphin, second degree murder, now out on parole, but asking complete pardon.

Find Baby on Doorstep.

Woodbury, N. J., March 19.—Hearing the cries of a child about three o'clock in the morning, Mrs. Arthur Ley, residing at Curtis avenue, near the railroad station, awakened her husband, who found a two-months-old baby girl lying on the front door mat.
The child was thin and poorly clad,
and the wrappings were also thin.
The baby will be cared for by Mrs. Ley until the return of Rev. Stock, of the Children's Home society, who is away from the city.

Fall Kills Schoolboy.

Pottsville, Pa., March 19.—Louis Dehl, an eight-year-old schoolboy of Minersville, died as the result of an accident while he was playing with a crowd of boys at recess. A playmate tripped him and he fell with such violence that death resulted in spite of the doctors who tried to revive him.

One Killed, Three Hurt, in Explosion.
Cleveland, March 19.—James D.
Bowman, chief engineer, was killed; George Kilburn, fireman, fatally injured; Harry Kay, oiler, and Alfred Colson, assistant engineer, seriously hurt, in an explosion in the Cleveland brewing company's plant.

Find Body in River Near Smyrna, Del.

Wilmington, Del., March 19.—The body of a white man was found in the Delaware river, off Collins Beach, near Smyrna. The man had been in the water for considerable time. In one of the pockets of his coat was some uncooked steak.

UNEMPLOYED FOOL SHERIFF

Buy Ranch With $70. Thereby Obliging Official to Retire.

Sacramento, Cal., March 19.—One hundred and fifty men—the remnant of "General" Wiley's army of the unemployed—laughed at Sheriff Ahern, of Sacramento county.

When the sheriff received word that the scattered members were reassembling on a ranch four miles north of Sacramento, he hurriedly collected a force of deputies and went to the scene to drive them out, but was halted at the boundary of the camp by a man with a legal paper.

The document proved to be a contract for the purchase of one acre of land, for which $70 had been given as a first payment. There was nothing for Sheriff Ahern to do but retire.

The city and county officials of Sacramento were in a quandary. Leaders of the unemployed boasted that they would provide quarters for a thousand men on the acre of ground, and defied the authorities to prevent the reassembling of the army.

The arrival at the camp of provisions by the wagon load from Sacramento indicated that they had received financial backing.

WORLD'S COURT TENNIS TITLE GOES TO GOULD

American Defeats George Covey in Decisive Match.

Philadelphia, March 19.—Jay Gould won the world's open championship at court tennis at the Racquet club's court. He defeated George F. Covey, of England, world's professional champion, seven sets to one.

Four sets were played, of which Gould took three. The scores were:
6-2, 6-3, 5-6 and 6-1. These, added to the four straight won by the American amateur champion in the opening match on Monday, gave him the open title.

Throughout this match the experts agreed that Gould outplayed and outgeneraled the Englishman at every stage. His accuracy from all angles of the court was marvellous and nothing appeared to shake his nerve, although Covey attempted several vicious attacks.

There was some surprise when Covey took the third set after a hard struggle, but Gould's quick return to form was proved by his victory in the fourth and decisive set.

LONE TRAIN ROBBER ESCAPES

Holds Up Santa Fe Messenger and Gets Lumber Co.'s Pay Roll.

Beaumont, Texas, March 19.—A lone robber held up the express messenger, Rob Martin, on a Santa Fe railroad train near here and is reported to have secured $14,000.

The robbery occurred at Halbig, fourteen miles north of Beaumont.
Deputy sheriffs and policemen from Beaumont started in pursuit of the robber, who is said to have disappeared in a thickly wooded country.

The $14,000 was being sent by a Beaumont lumber company to Brown-land, Texas, for pay roll use.

WANTS U. S. MOVIE CENSORS

Senate Bill Would Appoint Commission to License Films.

Washington, March 19.—A federal motion picture commission, under the jurisdiction of the United States bureau of education, was proposed in a bill by Senator Hoke Smith.

Three members, appointed by the president, would license each film exhibition unless it is improper or depicts a bull fight or prize fight, or is of such character that its exhibition would tend to corrupt the morals of children and adults or incite to crime.

Say Jap Suicide Confessed.

Tokio, March 19.—It was reported that Torago Yoshida, accused of being an intermediary between grafting Japanese naval officials and German firms, who committed hari-kari, left a complete confession, involving men high in naval circles.

Yeggmen Rob Leesport Postoffice.

Reading, Pa., March 19.—Yeggmen blew the safe in the postoffice at Leesport, escaping with $245. The building was wrecked.

PERSONAL NOTES AND BRIEF ITEMS

Paragraphs of News Telling of the Happenings in and about Town People Visiting Here and Those Sojourning Elsewhere.

Louis A. Simons, supervising architect of the Treasury Department, at Washington, is here to-day inspecting the new federal building and, also, spending some time with Mr. and Mrs.
Norman S. Heindel on Carlisle street.

Herman Homan, of West Middle street, left this morning to spend some time in Chambersburg.

Miss Nellie Weaver, of Baltimore street, is visiting in Philadelphia and New York.

M. F. Williams, of High street, is spending several days in Harrisburg.

BANKED ALL HIS MONEY.

Then Exploited His Views on the Use of a Check Book.

During a financial stringency some years ago a Swedish farmer in one of the middle west states had sold some hogs on the local market and upon receiving his check in payment immediately went to the local bank to realize on his sale. Upon presentation of the check the banker said to him, "Do you wish the money on this check?"

"Well, I think I just so well take him," was the quick reply.

"You really want the money?"

"Yah, I think I take the money."

"But do you really need the money?" asked the banker.

"Well, no; I don't exactly need him, but I think I take the money."

"Well," said the banker, "if you really want the money of course I will give it to you, but I thought if you did not need it perhaps you might open an account and deposit the money and then check against it as you needed it."

"Den ven I send my sheeks here you will refuse to pay dem."

"Oh, no, we won't. If you open the account we will pay your checks whenever they come in."

This seemed assuring to the Swede, and he said, "Well, if you pay my sheeks, den I open de account." And the account was opened and passbook and check book handed to the new customer.

Half an hour later a close friend of the new depositor appeared at the cashier's window and presented a check signed by his friend for the full amount of the deposit, which was promptly paid by the banker without comment.

In about an hour the Swede appeared and, walking up to the cashier's window, handed the banker his check book minus only one check, with the remark, "Well, I don't tank I needs him any more."

Soft Answer.

A New Jersey teacher who had been greatly annoyed by revelry in the hotel where she had spent part of one vacation took the precaution next time, in writing to another hotel which had been recommended to her, to inquire whether it had a bar. She received the following reply:

"No, we haven't any bar, and if that is the sort of woman you are we don't want you. The place for you is at Yards's, farther up the road."—New York Post.

Amazing Notice.

A traveling revivalist placed the following rather astounding notice on the bulletin board at a country schoolhouse on his arrival: "There will be preaching here the following Wednesday eve, Providence permitting, on the subject: 'He that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not shall be damned' at 3:30 in the afternoon."

Wisdom of Quiet.

More than half a century of existence has taught me that most of the wrong and folly which darken earth is due to those who cannot possess their souls in quiet; that most of the good which saves mankind from destruction comes of life that is led in thoughtful stillness. Every day the world grows noisier; I, for one, will have no part in that increasing clamor and, were it only by my silence, I confer a boon on all.—From the Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft, by George Gissing.

All Work for Man's Advancement.

The long quest for the source of the Nile, for the northwest passage, for the north and south poles; yes, and the ancient search for the "elixir of life," "perpetual motion" and the "secret of life," have for us this grand significance—they all point to the fact that in the mind of man there is a deathless ambition to know and to do—to fathom the depths of the unknown, to conquer the unconquered, to add more and still more to the sum of its knowledge and achievement.

Meaning of Bronze Horses' Hoofs.

Equestrian statues on the battlefield of Gettysburg all follow a general rule which sculptors have adopted as an arbitrary convention. If two feet of the horse are in the air the rider was killed. If one foot is lifted from the ground the rider was wounded. If all four feet are planted on the pediment then it signifies that the subject of the statue was not hurt.

MARVELOUS PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION WILL OPEN UPON A COMPLETED ASSEMBLAGE OF THE TREASURES OF THE WORLD'S ARTS, SCIENCES AND INDUSTRIES

A conclave of nations unsurpassed in the history of the world will assemble at San Francisco when the marvelous Panama-Pacific International exposition opens on February 20, 1915.

Today, the Panama-Pacific International exposition overshadows and eclipses any commemorative and instructive exhibition in history. Progress in all phases of this most brilliant and comprehensive of world's celebrations visualizes the exposition as it will appear when the exhibits of the world are installed within its spacious halls, when hundreds of thousands of rare trees, plants and shrubs brought from far corners of the globe have transformed the grounds into a semitropical paradise and when from the Golden Gate the traveler will behold the vast Exposition city rising to great heights against the walls of the encircling amphitheater of the hills at San Francisco.

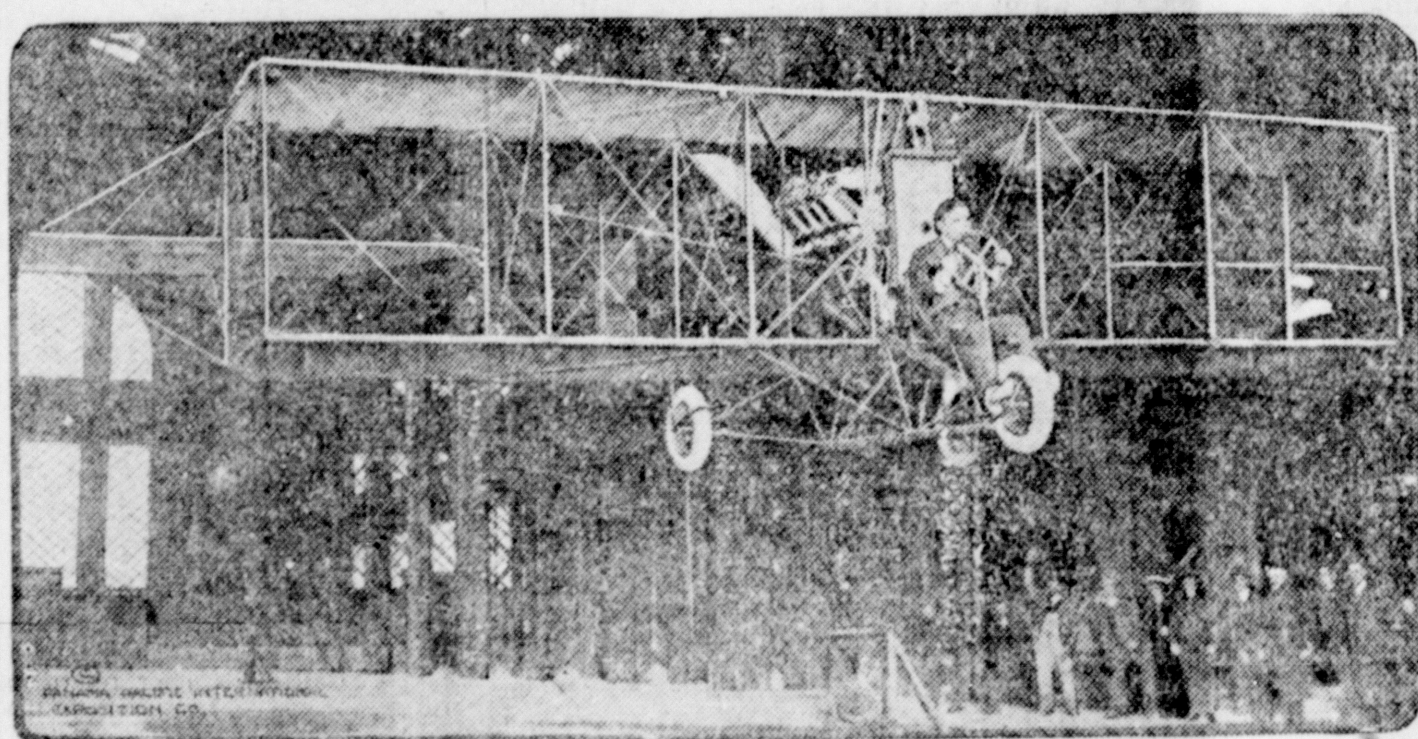

In the assured participation of the foreign nations and of the commercial and industrial interests of the world the Panama-Pacific International exposition stands alone among the great expositions of the past.

As a tribute to America's heroic task in the completion of the Panama canal 34 of the world's great nations have formally accepted the invitation of the president to take part in the celebration and are now engaged in preparing magnificent displays, which will illustrate their progress in every line of social and industrial activity. The Argentine leads with a government appropriation of $1,300,000 (gold), and in its magnificent pavilion will be presented the wonders of that far-away land. Canada will expend $600,000; Japan, $600,000; China, $800,000; Turkey, $300,000, and in the Turkish pavilion will be shown the rarest and costliest treasures of the Ottoman empire. New Zealand and Australia will make tremendous displays. Fifteen hundred manufacturers in Germany will make a collective exhibit, to be shown in a great German building; 600 manufacturers from England will present a combined exhibit.

More than 500,000 accredited delegates from all parts of the globe will attend a series of great international conventions and congresses to be held at San Francisco during the exposition. Among the congresses will be the great International Engineering congress, of which Col. George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama canal, is chairman.

Thousands of visitors from all parts of the globe are planning to see the great exposition at San Francisco in 1915, and wonderful preparations are being made to transport and to care for them.

WORLD'S FIRST INDOOR AEROPLANE FLIGHT.

Copyright, 1914, by Panama Pacific International Exposition Company.

The first time an aeroplane ever flew inside a building was when Lincoln Beachey, the famous aviator, flew in the huge Palace of Machinery on the grounds of the Panama-Pacific International exposition to open in San Francisco on February 20, 1915. The Palace of Machinery is almost 1,000 feet long and 136 feet high. Beachey passed from one end to the other of the building, flying for more than 300 feet and at a height of 60 feet. The most remarkable feature of the flight was that he had to steer a straight course down the center aisle, which is 75 feet in width.

Telephone Achievements

TELEPHONE SERVICE OF TO-DAY THE CREATION OF THE BELL CO.

In no line of human endeavor has the inventive brain of the scientist contributed more to the world's progress than by the creation of the art of telephony, of which the Bell system is the embodiment.

When the telephone was born, nothing analogous to telephone service as we now know it existed. There was no tradition to guide, no experience to follow.

The system, the apparatus, the methods—an entire new art had to be created. The art of electrical engineering did not exist. The Bell pioneers, recognizing that success depended upon the highest engineering and technical skill at once organized an experimental and research department which is now directed by a staff of over 550 engineers and scientists, including former professors, post-graduate students, scientific investigators—the graduates of over 70 universities.

From its foundation the company has continuously developed the art. New improvements in telephones, switchboards, lines, cables, have followed one another with remarkable rapidity.

While each successive type of apparatus to the superficial observer suggested similarity, each step in the evolution marked a decided improvement. These changes, this evolution, has not only been continuous, but is continuing. Substantially all of the plant now in use, including telephones, switchboards, cables and wires, has been constructed, renewed or reconstructed in the past 10 years.

Particularly in switchboards have the changes been so radical that installations costing in the aggregate millions have frequently been discarded after only a few years of use.

Since 1877 there have been introduced 53 types and styles of receivers and 73 types and styles of transmitters. Of the 12,000,000 telephone receivers and transmitters owned by the Bell Company January 1, 1914, none were in use prior to 1902, while the average age is less than five years.

Within 10 years we have expended for construction and reconstruction an amount more than equal to the present book value of our entire plant.

Long-distance and underground transmission was the most formidable scientific problem confronting the telephone experts.

The retarding effect of the earth on the telephone current often impaired conversation through one mile underground as much as through 100 miles overhead. Overhead conversation had its disadvantages.

No possible improvement in the telephone transmitter could of itself solve these difficulties.

The solution was only found in the cumulative effect of improvements, great and small, in telephone, transmitter, line, cable, switchboard, and every other piece of apparatus or plant required in the transmission of speech.

While the limit of commercial overhead talking had increased from strictly local to over 1,000 miles as early as 1893, it was not until 1905 that conversation could be had over long-distance circuits of which as much as 20 miles was in underground cables. By 1906 underground talking distance had increased to 90 miles. By 1912 it was possible to talk underground from New York to Washington.

It was then that the construction of underground conduits from Boston to Washington was determined upon—not that it was expected to get a through underground talk between those places, but in case of storm or blizzard, to utilize intermediate sections in connection with the overhead.

Our persistent study and incessant experimentation have produced results more remarkable still.

We have perfected cables, apparatus and methods that have overcome obstacles heretofore regarded as insuperable both to long-distance overhead and underground conversation.

Underground conversation is now possible between Boston and Washington, four times the length of the longest European underground line. This enabled the Bell System in the recent great storm, so destructive on land and sea, to maintain communication for the public between all the principal points on the Atlantic seaboard.

Telephone communication is established between New York and Denver, is potentially possible between all points in the United States, and by 1915 will be an accomplished fact between New York and San Francisco.

In our use of methods or apparatus, we are committed to no one system. We own, control or have the right to use inventions necessary to operate any system recognized or accepted as the most efficient. The Bell System must always recognize, and in its selection must always be governed by the necessities of a national service, with its complex requirements, which is infinitely more exacting than local or limited service.

These achievements represent vast expenditures of money and immense concentration of effort which have been justified by results of immeasurable benefit to the public. No local company unaided could bear the financial or scientific burden of this work. Such results are possible only through a centralized general staff, avoiding wasteful duplication of effort, working out problems common to all, for the benefit of all.

The pioneers of the Bell System recognized that telephone service as they saw it, was in the broadest sense a public utility; that upon them rested a public obligation to give the best possible service at the most reasonable rates consistent with risk, investment and the continued improvement and maintenance of its property.

Without this expenditure of millions and concentration of effort, the telephone art as it exists could not have been developed.

What we have done in working out these great problems in the past should be accepted as a guarantee of what we will do in the future.

THEO. N. VAIL, President.

MEN'S DEPARTMENT

Spring Style Show Now Ready

Young Men's Clothes are our Specialty

Hart, Schaffner & Marx fine Suits and Overcoats are here

If you will look with some care at our illustration, you'll get a good idea of the way we can dress any young man in this town. You notice that there's a smart, snappy, very dressy style about this young man; nothing "flashy" in the cut of his clothes, nothing ultra or extreme; just a well-dressed, high toned young gentleman; young looking in his clothes as well as in his face. That's the way do things; and that's the reason we make such a feature of their goods. We believe the young men of our town appreciate such clothes; the styles are very smart, and up-to-date; the creations of the best and cleverest designers in the world. But there's more than style in such clothes; there's all-wool security in the fabrics; there's the finest tailoring known; there's correct and permanent fit.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx

You'll choose from a lot of new and beautiful fabrics; many new imported weaves, and the usual large variety of American goods. Smart new patterns and colorings. The illustration is only a suggestion of what you may expect here; you've got to see the clothes to know how good they are.

PUBLIC SALE

ON MONDAY, MARCH 23rd, 1914

The undersigned, intending to reduce stock, will sell at the residence of Robert F. Bell, along the State Road between Gettysburg and Heidlersburg six miles from the former and three miles from the latter, the following described:

12 Head of Horses and Mules: No. 1 "Bird", a black mare 7 years old weighs about 1100, with foal, due to foal May 27th. This is an exceptionally good all around mare, can't hitch her wrong to work, a safe and stylish day driver, safe for any woman to drive that knows how to drive a good horse, and a fine riding mare. No. 2 "Della", a sorrel mare 12 years old weighs about 1150 lbs., with foal, due to foal by time of sale. This is an extra good brood mare, good off-side worker and driver, safe for any woman to drive. No. 3, "Maud", dark bay mare 12 years old, weighs about 1100 lbs., with foal, due to foal April 9th can't hitch this mare wrong. This is my wagon leader when mules are no in the team. Good driver, safe for any woman. These mares are all with foal to my sorrel pacer horse "Sterling Jr." No. 4, "Pet", a bay mare 7 years old, weighs about 1050 lbs. This mare is an extra fine driver and off-side worker or near side worker with checks, positively afraid of nothing but the whip. This is a fine one. No. 5 "Monte", a mahogany bay horse 3 years old, weighs 1000 lbs., good worker, has been driven some, would make a nice horse for some young man. No. 6, "Queen", a bright bay mare weighing about 1150, 14 years old, good worker and driver, extra good plover leader, and good quiet family mare. These horses are fearless of all road objects. No. 7, pair of large dark bay mules, 7 and 8 years old, weigh about 1150 apiece, 1 a good leader and sad dle mule, well mated and safe for a boy to work, very quiet in stable. No. 8, pair of black mules, 6 and 7 years old, weigh about 1000 lbs. apiece, both leaders, can't hitch them wrong. These mules are quick steppers and dead set pullers, quiet and gentle and safe for anyone to work or drive. No. 9, pair of mules which don't quite mate in color but are just right in size and disposition, 15 years old and weigh about 1000 lbs. apiece. These mules can't be hitched wrong.

7 Head of Cattle: 5 milk cows, 3 will be fresh by time of sale, the other two will be fresh in October. These are fine cows—every one straight and all right and quiet to milk. 2 bulls, one 3 years old, well bred Holstein, a good stock bull and in good condition weighs about 1600 lbs.; the other is a brindle 14 months old and plenty big enough for service.

12 Head of Hogs: 2 fine brood sows Berkshire breed, 1 will have pigs by time of sale, other in April. 10 pure bred Poland China Shoats that are hard to beat, weigh about 75 lbs. Lot of brooms and two turkey gobblers.

Sale to commence at 12 o'clock. Credit of 10 months will be given or sums of $5.00 and upwards to purchasers giving their notes with approved security or 4 per cent. off for cash. Further terms on day of sale by

Sage Tea Keeps Your Hair Dark

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it falls, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

THE NEW SKIRTS SHOW A TENDENCY TO BECOME A TRIFLE WIDER AT THE BOTTOM.

While still retaining their narrow line at the bottom, many of the new skirts seem inclined to allow for a more generous stride without being obliged to open the seams at the side. In fact few slashed models are seen. On many of the skirts used for sports purposes the slash is closed by invisible fasteners which may be opened if necessary.

Black taffetas is much favored for separate skirts, and there is wide variety in white materials to wear with contrasting coats a little later. White taffetas, moire, gabardine, serge, prunella and crepe will combine well with coats of taffetas, faille or goline. These materials are wide and range in price from $1 a yard and up. One French house is bringing out all sorts of color combinations. Color

Keep Ice Long Time.

A simple method of keeping ice is to draw a piece of thick flannel tightly over a bowl, or other deep vessel, and fasten it securely. Place the ice on top of this and cover with another piece of flannel. The ice will keep and even freeze to the flannel. A small piece of ice may be kept in the room all night, saving many steps back and forth to the refrigerator. To break the ice, force in a large needle or hatpin; it will divide the ice easily.

Millionaire's Business Maxims.

The late Phillip D. Armour was a great believer in action. Often when his hog buyers were inclined to hold off for a few days for prices to come down, he would exclaim: "The time to buy these hogs is when these hogs are here." At the same time his attitude with his selling agents would be expressed in the following words: "The time to do business is when you see a margin of profit!"

Biggest Thing He Could Think Of.

Two employees were discussing what they would buy the boss, whose birthday was approaching. Said Mr. Wiggins with enthusiasm: "Wiggins, old boy, we have raised $50, and we want something that will make a show for the money. Something that will look big, you know. Can't you suggest something?" "Sure," replied Mr. Wiggins; "buy $50 worth of rice and boil it."

SCALING CLOVER.

In many portions of the country which are not suited to the growing of alfalfa or where farmers have not got onto the way of growing it, clover must be relied upon as the best means of keeping up the fertility of the soil. The present spring ought to be a good one to sow clover generously as the seed costs but a little over one-half what it has for several years past, the price on local retail markets being about $7 per bushel. In securing a good stand of clover there are several things that should be kept in mind. One of these is being sure that the clover seed to be used is good seed—that is, that it does not contain the seeds of foal or noxious weeds, and the clover seed itself of good vitality that will grow. The point can be covered by buying only that seed that is accompanied by a trustworthy guarantee. The matter of germinating power can easily be determined by placing a given number of the seed in the folds of a moistened cloth laid on a plate and keeping in a room where the temperature is about 60 degrees F. In the course of a few days the good seed will have sprouted. If there is a germination of 80 per cent the seed may be called good seed. Another important factor in clover success is a sweet soil. If there is any tendency to sourness (and this can be determined by the use of blue litmus paper) it should be corrected by the application of lime, either in the form of ground limestone or slacked lime. Another respect in which many fall down is the proper preparation of the seed bed. This should be fine and mellow and rolled if there is likely to be scarcity of moisture. To still further insure a stand of clover it is well to sow an early maturing nurse crop—early oats or barley—and the clover plants will have the better chance if the nurse crop is seeded light.

PROMOTING CREAMERIES.

Judging from inquiries that are being sent to agricultural papers here and there, it is apparent that the creamery promotion agent is abroad and anxious to get in his work. Not all men who seek to establish creameries are necessarily untrustworthy, but any man who urges the installing of an $8,000 or $20,000 creamery plant when one costing from $3,500 to $4,000 will answer should be viewed with suspicion. There are several points to be considered in the establishment of a creamery aside from the willingness of some outsider to promote it. One is the question of whether there are prospective patrons enough to justify the move. Many a creamery has been built on enthusiasm, only to fizzle out later on because there was no patronage enough to insure its profitable operation. Before the decision has been definitely made to start a creamery, it is an excellent idea to confer with a responsible representative of the state dairy department and also with a representative from some nearby successful creamery which is organized along the same lines as the one proposed. The precautions suggested are very simple and inexpensive, yet will in many cases prevent a whole lot of grief and financial loss.

WHAT IS IT WORTH?

Wallace's Farmer, an agricultural paper that has a large circulation in the north central states, has within the past few weeks been making some inquiries to ascertain, if possible, the value in dollars and cents of a common school, high school and college education. The replies received from inquiries sent out were from fifty-one tenant farmers in Iowa, Illinois and Indiana who happened to receive a high school education, while replies were received from 189 farmers who had had only a common or country school education. On the basis of the income reported, it was found that every day a boy spends in the common school is worth $1.10. The value of every day spent in high school was found to be $17.06 per day, while replies received from a number of farmers who had had college education showed that each day spent in college was worth $12.45—that is, the college man had this much advantage on the basis of revenue over the man who attended high school only. The figures presented are interesting, to say the least, and ought to set a good many boys who are looking forward to making their way in the world to thinking.

HOME CURED BACON.

The writer's table is being supplied with some sugar cured, home smoked bacon that is as toothsome and fine flavored as can be. The meat used for the bacon was the thinner and leaner portions from a 225 pound pig. The pieces were rubbed with the preservative preparation, consisting of one pint of salt, three ounces of saltpeter and seven ounces of brown sugar, three times at intervals of several days, the meat not being allowed to freeze. For the smoking process an old sugar barrel with both heads out has been used, the barrel being placed upon a hollow foundation of three courses of loose brick. A couple of lengths of old stovepipe ran from the space beneath the barrel to the head of an old egg gallon can, which contains a pan of smoldering coals and is fitted with a cover so as to regulate the draft. When the bacon is sufficiently smoked it is hung up in flour sacks, being tied near the top so as to keep the flies away from it.

An Appeal to the Sense of Beauty

By EUNICE BLAKE

Dr. Worthington was the physician of the upper ten thousand—not a physician of the upper ten thousand, but the physician of that class. He was thirty-five years old and considered the handsomest man of the city in which he lived and practiced his profession.

One night a lamp exploded in the home of a young widow, setting fire to the clothes of an old lady, a member of the family, and burning her so severely that she lived but twenty-four hours after the accident. Every doctor in the neighborhood was called in, among them Dr. Worthington. There was little that could be done for the patient, who was known to every doctor there, but there was a great deal to be done in calming those present. As soon as the physician of the upper ten thousand entered practitioners earning a beggarly $5,000 to $10,000 a year instinctively withdrew into their shells, and when he spoke in his musical baritone voice a few words enjoining quiet a calm fell upon every one in the room.

Mrs. Allandale, the young widow in whose house the accident occurred, was so impressed with Dr. Worthington's aristocratic bearing, his self control and that influence he possessed over his fellow beings, especially women, that she resolved to win him for her second husband. Mrs. Allandale had heard a story about the doctor's having to employ a chaperon at his office and realized that her game must be played with great delicacy in order to be successful.

About a week after the death and burial of the person who was burned Dr. Worthington was called to visit Mrs. Allandale. He responded at once and found the lady reclining in her library, where logs blazed in a gothic fireplace. She had on a pale blue silk negligee—she was a blond—and a lamp shaded in pink was on a little table beside her. The blue was especially becoming, and the pink lampshade on her complexion added to the pleasing effect. Dr. Worthington was perfectly aware from the moment he entered the room that the lady's intentions were those of women from whom his duenna was expected to protect him. But, oh, how different this appeal from the others!

The lady did not extend her finger that she should not smile; she simply said:

"Doctor, in the dreadful experience we have had in this house my nerves have been severely strained. I sleep very badly, have no appetite and am subject to a twitching of the muscles, especially when passing into a slumber. I would like you to give me a sedative, a tonic or whatever you think I require."

The doctor placed the tips of his thumb and fingers on the lady's wrist, looked wise, sympathetic and respectful, all in one glance; then, taking out a blank slip, wrote a prescription.

"This is merely a light sedative," he said. "I do not attach much importance to it, for the shock you have received must wear off gradually. I would advise diverting your mind so far as possible—social affairs that are to your liking—nothing that will bore you—amusements and, above all, the company of those with whom you are congenial and who interest you."

"Thank you, doctor. I dare say you are right. I noticed how you quited us all at the time of the accident, and I rely more on your personal influence than your medicines. I should be glad to have you call as often as your other professional and social engagements will permit, for I feel quieted already. I am quite sure that treatment by influence, such as is practiced by Christian Scientists and other like sects, will do me a world of good. But, of course, I do not mean that you are to give me more of your valuable time than my share."

There was some desultory chat, after which the doctor withdrew, promising to call again in a few days. Mrs. Allandale told him that she required soothing more in the evening than in the daytime and she would be glad when he could find it convenient to call between 8 and 11 o'clock p. m. He promised to do his best in this respect.

A few days later the doctor telephoned Mrs. Allandale that he must visit a patient in her vicinity that evening and would call if she thought he could be of any service. She replied through her maid that she was much depressed and begged that he would surely come.

When the doctor called he found his patient sitting on one end of a sofa, robed this time in a commingling of pink and lace, with a jack rose in her hair, the latter taking the place of the lamp shade that had before given a becoming hue to her complexion. He made bold to sit on the other end of the sofa, and when he felt her pulse he left his fingers on her wrist longer than before.

The doctor's visits became more and more frequent, and every time he called he found Mrs. Allandale in a costume which was a more becoming creation than the last, and at each call there was a different lampshade or screen set near her for heightening or subduing the hue of her complexion or a different flower in her corsage or her hair. What could not be accomplished by ordinary means was brought about by such appeals to the doctor's senses. Her efforts were successful, and in due time he proposed and was accepted.

ELY'S CREAM BALM OPENS CLOGGED NOSTRILS AND HEAD--CATARRH GOES

Instantly Clears Air Passages: You Breathe Freely, Nasty Discharges Stop, Head Colds and Dull Headache Vanish.

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucus dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

SUIT TO SMASH HARD COAL TRUST

Government Begins Action in New York.

CHARGE RESTRAINT OF TRADE

Seek to Deprive Railroads of Coal Lands and Charge Lehigh Valley With Rebating.

Philadelphia, March 19.—The federal government struck another blow at the so-called coal trust, with the filing of a suit in New York under the Sherman anti-trust law, charging that the Lehigh Valley railroad is the dominant factor in a combination alleged to control the anthracite output from the territory it embraces.

More than a dozen other corporations and individuals are named as co-defendants in the conspiracy which the government declares has brought about a monopoly of the hard coal trade.

The suit is one of many brought in recent years by the government to break up the alleged monopoly. Another suit which has for its purpose the divorcing of the railroads from the coal business is now pending in Philadelphia.

Another development in the days' news of the anthracite roads was the resignation of George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia & Reading railway, as a director of the Lehigh Valley. The meeting was held in Philadelphia, and the directors, after accepting Mr. Baer's resignation, elected Morris L. Clothier as his successor.

In the suit filed in New York the defendants in addition to the Lehigh Valley railroad are: Lehigh Valley Coal company, Lehigh Valley Coal Sales company, Cox Bros. & Co., Inc., Delaware, Susquehanna & Schuylkill Railroad company, New York & Middle Coal Field Railroad and Coal company, the G. B. Markle Company, the Girard Trust company, of Philadelphia; Eben N. Thomas, Lyman D. Smith, Edward T. Stotesbury, Daniel G. Reid, Charles Steele, Abram Nesbit, George F. Baker, George E. Baer, Edward B. Smith, William H. Moore, Edward S. Moore, William R. Butler, Henry B. Cox and Fred M. Kirby.

The suit, which is brought under the Sherman law, seeks to restrain the defendants from engaging in a monopoly of the anthracite coal trade and asks that the control of coal lands be taken from the ownership of the Lehigh Valley.

It is alleged that the Lehigh Valley obtained its ownership of coal lands through the Lehigh Valley company and stifled competition by buying the capital stock of a number of independent coal companies, and that in this respect it not only has violated the federal statute, but the provisions of the constitution of Pennsylvania.

The Lehigh Valley is also charged with rebating by having paid the coal companies various sums, the largest being $4,054,274 on March 1, 1912. Through advances to its affiliated companies, the brief states, unlawful discriminations against other producers and shippers along the line of the Lehigh Valley, was made, and the railroad thereby secured the monopolization of the ownership, production and sale of the anthracite coal.

The defendants hold under long term leases 91,701 acres of land in the anthracite producing regions of Pennsylvania. Approximately 9,500,000 gross tons of coal were produced in 1912.

The court is asked to direct the dissolution of these concerns and dispose of the capital stock of each corporation so that the corporations shall not have the same controlling stockholders and that pending such disposition the railroad be enjoined from voting or receiving dividends on the stock held by it.

TO PREVENT BLINDNESS

Babies in Wisconsin Must Be Treated by Physicians.

Madison, Wis., March 19.—The state board of health sent three thousand packages of nitrate of silver to all the physicians in the state to prevent blindness in infants.

Under a law passed by the last legislature the eyes of children at birth must be washed in a silver solution to prevent blindness.

A recent investigation at the state supreme court for the blind showed that at least 25 per cent of the children would not be blind had they been properly treated at birth.

JAMES G. BENNETT.

Owner of New York Herald, Who Was Reported Ill.

Rumors are current that James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald, is seriously ill aboard his yacht, the Lyndalra, at Suez. Dispatches coming by way of London represented that Mr. Bennett had been on a three weeks' cruise and that during the trip his health had become impaired, finally giving way to a severe fever. The report was discredited at the New York Herald office on the strength of a cable message from Mr. Bennett. The communication came from Port Said, in the Red sea, a two days' sail from Suez, and contained no intimation that Mr. Bennett was in other than his usual good health.

LEE GETS 8 MONTHS FOR KILLING FATHER

He is Sentenced For Involuntary Manslaughter.

Media, Pa., March 19.—The trial of John Lee, who shot and killed his father, Thomas Lee, came to a sudden termination when Lee pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter.

He was then sentenced to eight months' imprisonment from the time the shooting occurred, Nov. 8, 1913, and was fined $500.

Thomas Lee was a deputy tax collector in the Twenty-sixth ward, Philadelphia. He was shot on a bridge over the Darby creek, near his boat house at Essington, after a quarrel with his son. It was the contention of the defense that John Lee, meaning only to frighten his father, fired at the ground, but that the bullet was deflected and hit Thomas Lee.

At the opening of court, District Attorney Hannum and Lee's attorney retired to an anteroom with Judge Broome. Here the district attorney said that he would withdraw the charge of murder in the first degree if the defendant would plead guilty of involuntary manslaughter.

Judge Broome had said that the defense, if pleading guilty to this charge, would accept a sentence of one year in prison and $100 fine or eight months in prison and $500 fine. The defense accepted the proposition.

SEEK BECKER WITNESS

Man Expected to Save Gunmen Is Believed to Be in Philadelphia.

New York, March 19.—Lawyers preparing the defense of Charles Becker, former police lieutenant, at his second trial, began search for "Butch" Witte, a witness of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, who, they declare, will swear that "Bridgie" Weber and Harry Vallon were the actual slayers of the gambler.

Former Magistrate Wahle, counsel for the four gunmen, who are under sentence to die on April 13 for the murder, believes Witte's story will save his clients from the electric chair, but Witte is missing, and efforts to find him have proved unsuccessful.

It was reported recently that Witte had been seen in Philadelphia, and a search for him is being made in that city.

HANS SCHMIDT GETS STAY

Counsel For Condemned Slayer Files Notice of Appeal.

New York, March 19.—The slayer of Anna Ammiller, Hans Schmidt, sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of March 23, was granted a stay of execution by the filing of a notice of appeal by counsel.

The appeal is based on the contention that Anna Ammiller came to her death in the performance of an illegal operation.

PROFIT IN RAISING HEAVY DRAFTERS

The big horse is at the top of the equine heap. He is in demand everywhere, says Better Farming.

Of course one cannot raise big horses from ponies. The first essential is good draft breeding. The mares should be mated to the pure bred stallion, which weighs around a ton and is sound. And the more drafty are the mares, the more drafty the colts will be. Every farm should have work mares of high grade or pure bred draft breeding. They should do the work handily and raise valuable, high priced colts besides.

But some farmers mate their mares to big draft stallions and then raise mediocre small colts. Why is that? It is usually a question of not enough feed.

After all, wise feeding is the prerequisite to raising big horses. A farmer who is stingy with his feed had better try something else than the draft horse business.

First of all the dams of the colts should be well fed, so that nursing will be a profitable occupation for the youngsters. Then colts should be given a handful of grain as soon as they will take it, not much, but enough to teach them to eat it. By weaning them they should be eating oats, bran, some corn and alfalfa, so that they will suffer no setback when the mother's milk is stopped. They should have the run of a paddock. The more outdoors, except in inclement weather, the better. They should be grown under natural conditions.

Good big horses are scarcer than they ever were, and geldings of any kind weighing 1,500 pounds and over are remarkably hard to find. Nothing of those that have quality. Breeding heavy horses seems to be going out of fashion. As they become scarcer prices are likely to advance, and therefore the farmer who produces the good ones will big weight will be the fellow who gets the big money.

A colt should never be overfed, but always have just what it will clean up heartily. If he gets out of condition give a laxative and a hot bran wash. Keep him in perfect health and always ready to eat. Then keep liberal amounts of feed before him. The buyer will come to lead him out of the pasture at a handsome price. It pays to feed draft bred colts liberally.

SUGAR BEETS FOR HOGS.

Roots Provide a Valuable Addition to the Winter Ration.

All the root crops are valuable in the feeding of live stock. In countries where root crops are easily grown they are fed in large quantities, and it has been found that a pound of dry matter contained in the average root crop is equal in feeding value to a pound of dry matter in corn or similar concentrated feeds.

The sugar beet is richer in feeding value than most of the other root crops, due to the fact that it contains a large amount of sugar, says the Kansas Farmer. Sugar beets will form a very valuable addition to the diet of the hogs during the winter season, and when grain feeds are scarce, might be relied upon quite largely in the wintering of stock hogs. They can best be preserved by storing them in some sort of root cellar or pit in the ground. It is necessary to prevent them from freezing, and stored in this way they will retain their succulence through the winter season.

Examine the Horse's Teeth.

Not very many of us pay as much attention to the mouths of our horses as we should. Good mouths in our horses would prevent many cases of indigestion, colic and lack of energy. Examine the horse's mouth and see that the teeth are in smooth working condition. If there are rough edges of the teeth that will lacerate the cheeks and tongue have them filed down by a competent veterinarian. This will allow the full chewing of the food and improve the general health of the horse. Decayed teeth frequently cause an overgrowth of the corresponding teeth on the opposite set and this overgrowth should be leveled down so as to permit the uppers and lowers to come together and present a perfect grinding surface.

Cause of Crumbly Butter.

The crumbly condition is caused by working the butter when too cold. If worked as soon as possible after churning the butter will generally be warm enough to work nicely after washing with cold water. If worked too warm a salty, sticky texture will be produced, so one must guard against this extreme also.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur It Brings Back Its Lustre and Abundance.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Action Better Than Indecision.

Three Liars

A Story For Easter

By F. A. MITCHEL

When our troops came home from Cuba and, nearly all sick, were unloaded from transports on the eastern end of Long Island the camps that held them were thronged with persons who had come to find relatives or friends. One of these, an old lady with an anxious look on her face, stopped at a tent before which sat an officer in a camp chair and asked in a tremulous voice:

"Can you tell me if my boy has come?"

The officer rose, took off his hat respectfully and said:

"What regiment did your boy belong to, madam?"

"He was with the -th Pennsylvania."

"Come with me, and I will see if I can get the information you wish."

He led the way to a tent wherein an officer was writing.

"Make your inquiries here," he said and left her.

"I'm trying to find my boy, Henry Ashurst," said the old lady.

The officer looked serious. He remembered having the name of Henry Ashurst on a list of killed and wounded.

He hunted in his desk for a certain paper and when he found it ran his eye over the list of names.

His expression became still more serious, but he bent his face down so that it was concealed under the rim of his hat. He had found the name of Henry Ashurst, but had not the heart to tell the mother what list it was in.

"Your son hasn't come up from Cuba yet, madam. He wasn't very well when the last transport sailed."

"Do you know what his trouble was?" asked the old lady, tears starting into her eyes.

"Some of these fevers they have down there, I believe."

"Is he very ill?"

"Well, I couldn't tell you about that. There's the regimental surgeon's tent over there; you might inquire of him."

The old lady walked feebly over to the tent designated, found the surgeon and asked the same questions she had asked the adjutant. The doctor looked down upon the anxious face and turned toward just as the other had done.

"Henry Ashurst?" he said as if trying to recollect. "There was a soldier in the hospital of that name, I think, but I can't exactly recall his case."

"Was he very sick?"

"Oh, no; not very sick. I think it was a simple flesh wound in the leg."

"Do you think he will come on the next transport?"

"No doubt of it, madam; no doubt of it."

The old lady went away. The adjutant saw her go and walked over to the surgeon.

"I couldn't do my duty by that old lady, could you? I found his name on a list of mortally wounded. I told his mother he had a fever."

"I remembered him in the hospital as one for whom there was no hope of recovery. I lied about it too. I told his mother he had a slight flesh wound. I only know what I have told you, so I took the benefit of the doubt."

Every day the old lady visited the camp, and every day the adjutant and surgeon either told her more lies or repeated the old ones. The ship bearing her son never came to Montauk Point, and when the last test was struck she ceased her visits and her inquiries.

The winter passed and no one had the courage to tell the mother that her boy would not come back to her. They all excused themselves on the ground that no record of the death and burial of Private Henry Ashurst had been found. But when the war closed every one connected with the army was in a hurry to get away from the heat, the sickness, the death attending an army in a tropical climate in summer.

Until some one would assure her that her son was dead the poor mother hoped. She was very religious and prayed fervently that her boy might be restored to her. One morning in April when the sun, shining warm, was opening the leaves typifying the resurrection shortly to be celebrated at Easter the old lady went to her room and said she had a feeling that Henry would come home on Easter Sunday.

"Do you think," she said, "that this feeling has sent me by Providence?"

"Quite likely," was the reply. "I believe that Providence often sends us forecasts of what is about to happen."

He had no more doubt that Henry Ashurst's bones were moldering in Cuba than that the earth turned on its axis.

"I'm so glad you think so!" added the mother, moving away, while the clergyman looked after her, not knowing whether to consider himself a liar or one who had done a kindness.

At dawn on Easter morning there was a loud rapping on the door of Mr. Ashurst's house.

"He's come!" she said, getting out of bed, and without stopping to put on a wrapper she went downstairs, opened the door and was clasped in the arms of her son.

"Oh, Harry, where have you been all this time?"

"I was left in Cuba. When I got well I had forgotten who I was. Since then I have been going about as an other person. Some time ago a surgeon removed a piece of my skull, and here I am."

A HISTORIC BELL

From the Guerriere to the Constitution, Then to a Mill.

One would hardly expect to find an object of historic interest in so prosaic a place as a New England mill—an object older than the oldest title of the English peerage, an object made before the English parliament was formed. Yet such an object is in daily use in a factory at Saylesville, R. I. It is a bell, whose history is a most interesting one. Around the bell, about four inches from the crown, is this superscription: "Peter Secest Amsterdam, Anno 1263, me fecit."

The date, together with other well authenticated facts, leads to the belief that the bell was long used in a convent belfry in England and was taken there from public use during the reformation. But the connecting link between its life in the old world and its advent to America is the famous naval battle between the Guerriere and the Constitution.

The Guerriere, a helpless wreck, was rolling in the trough of the sea, while her brave but defeated commander, Captain Dacres of the royal navy, on the deck of the American frigate, the Constitution, was offering his sword to gallant Captain Hull.

The two officers had been friends in time of peace, having often exchanged hospitalities at the Mediterranean ports, and now Hull's magnanimity shone out.

"I'll not take your sword, Dacres," said he. "Keep it."

In the meanwhile the boats of the Constitution were busily engaged in transporting the crew of the defeated ship to the deck of the victor. A midshipman reported to the first lieutenant that the ship's bell had been carried away by a grapeshot from the Guerriere and that there was no way of announcing the time to the ship's company.

At that moment the Guerriere gave a succession of heavy plunges, and the clear tones of a fine bell rang over the water.

"Go get the Englishman's bell," said the lieutenant to the midshipman. "There will be no further use for it on board that craft."

The Guerriere surrendered at 7 o'clock in the evening of Aug. 19, 1812, and at 8 o'clock the same evening Peter Secest's bell in sonorous tones rang out the hour on board "Old Ironsides."

With the lapse of time the bell, amid the confusion and debris common to a great navy yard, became misplaced, lost its identity and was thrust carelessly to one side. It found its way to the scrap heap, was afterward sold by the United States and finally came to rest in its present quarters—Boston Post.

AN ANIMAL IN PAIN.

It Suffers Less Than Man on Account of Its Low Intelligence.

It is a platitude that "pain is as one feels it." But that statement falls a considerable way short of the truth. The measure of pain undoubtedly depends as much upon realization, comparison and constructive memory as upon sensation. In other words, the individual with the most highly developed imagination enjoys and suffers most intensely, though not perhaps most violently. Pain and death are terrible in proportion as one is capable of relating them to experience. To children they are not terrible in this sense, because children have small experience and even smaller powers of imagining relations.

In the case of animals the power of constructing a memory picture and relating the same to present conditions is probably exceedingly low, if not entirely absent. Pain to an animal represents an unpleasant experience begun and ended sharply. It is unrelated. It has no social or moral significance. It is not terrible in the wide sense. An animal lives from moment to moment. At any given moment its happiness is a question in the main of physical comfort. The caged skylark (though it must not be supposed that this is any defense of an objectionable practice) experiences none of the misery of the caged man. It does not know that its liberty is hopelessly lost. It cannot relate its present position to past experience in the way in which a prisoner can and must do. The cage is merely an accidental obstruction which may at any moment disappear. Should the bird stop struggling it does so because struggling is unpleasant, not because it is hopeless.—London Chronicle.

Highly Practical.

"Your business college for young ladies seems to be all right."

"It is all right."

"Do you give the girls a good practical business training?"

"In reply to that question I can only say that 60 per cent of our graduates marry their employers the first year."

POST-OFFICE EQUIPMENT

On Friday, the 20th Day of MARCH, 1914,

I will sell at public sale at the room formerly occupied as a Post-office in the Haymond Building on York street in Gettysburg, Penna., all the furniture and fixtures used in said room for that purpose, as follows:

A large safe, 3 office desks, walnut and oak, 11 R. F. D. distributing desks, 2 cabinets for blanks, 3 slip-filing cases, revolving delivery cabinet, 2 big racks, registered mail desk, 2 dumping tables, 2 lockers, 3 stamp cabinets, several chairs and stools, mailing case, tables, stamping table, paper and letter distributing cases, several cases of pigeon holes, writing desks and numerous other articles, all of which are in good condition.

Also all of the lock boxes, delivery windows, partitions and attachments which can be divided into sections and will be so sold, including partition for private office. The lock boxes vary in size, are of design approved by the P. O. Department, with bronze doors, wire partitions and key locks; also sections of bins.

POST MASTERS desiring to make any additions to their equipment will find among above almost everything useful in an up-to-date plant. The sale is made on account of the removal of the post-office to the Government Building, where new material only has been installed.

Sale to begin at 1 o'clock p. m., when terms will be made known by

C. E. STAHL,

Atty. for Mrs. Ella K. Hammond.

Edw. A. Trottie, Auct.

Gettysburg Druggist

Deserves Praise

H. C. Landau, druggist, deserves praise from Gettysburg people for introducing here the simple buckthorn bark and glycerine mixture, known as Adlers-ka. This simple German remedy first became famous by curing appendicitis and it has now been discovered that JUST A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY. It's quick action is a big surprise to people.

Only True Culture.

Culture is not measured by the greatness of the field which is covered by our knowledge, but by the nicety with which we can perceive relations in that field, whether great or small—Stevenson.
